●Introduction

Kameyama city is located in northern part in Mie Prefecture. Historically, Suzuka Seki (checkpoint) was known as one of the three famous Seki in Japan. This means that this area prospered as intersection connecting Kyoto and eastern part to Japan. During Edo period, Kameyama lodging and neighboring Seki lodging, and Sakashita lodging were crowded as post town of Tokaido Highway. In nineteenth century Meiji period, Kansai Line and Sanmiya Kisei Line were opened and were nationalized; and Kameyama evolved as city where railway diverged.

Also, with construction of Tomei Highway and Kinki Highway Ise Line which offered accessible location for companies, city developed as an industrial city.

This way, Kameyama City played a role as traffic node point through each era. Here, "good old day" and "something new" coexist. Kameyama City has rich history and natural environments.

●Healthy City

By the “First Kameyama City Master Plan”, city aims at "creating a healthy with natural, rich environment" as the basic policy in order to realize the city where citizens can live healthy both mentally and physically with reassurance. For this purpose, city promotes the system and policies to support public health cross functionally.

●People-friendly Healthy City Kameyama
Kameyama City targets "city with health and culture", where citizens enjoy health and rich dietary life with worth living; and facilitating health promotion initiatives. One of these initiatives is “Health Promotion Assistance Team Training Course” which is expected to enlarge health promotion circle of friends.
